

UQ School of Music

Student Room Bookings

Purpose

The School of Music permits music students to book rooms for a variety of purposes, including instrumental practice, group work, and rehearsals.

Terms and Conditions

1. Students must book a room through the appropriate process (see below) before using the room.
2. The School reserves the right to cancel a booking it has accepted, or to direct students to leave a room if they have not made a booking.
3. When using a room, the student who booked the room is responsible for the use by themselves and others of the room and all equipment in the room, including chairs, table, pianos and music stands.
4. No food or drink is to be consumed in the room.
5. No objects are to be placed on any piano in the room.
6. No equipment is to be moved from the room.
7. At the end of the period of use, all furniture and other items must be returned to their original positions, and all rubbish must be removed or placed in any bins provided.
