Pulse Chamber Orchestra

The Pulse Chamber Orchestra is an ensemble of selected School of Music string students directed by Associate Professor Adam Chalabi and Patrick Murphy. The orchestra performs uncondacted, each member contributing to the artistic vision of the works. Pulse's eclectic repertoire ranges from masterworks of the string orchestra and string quartet genre, to transcriptions of Bartók's Mikrokosmos and works of contemporary and past Australian composers.

Pulse also collaborates frequently with choirs and vocalists, most notably in with The Choir of Temple Church in 2017, in performing liturgical repertoire including works of Bruckner, Rutter, CPE Bach, J.S. Bach and Benjamin

The UQ Friends of Music is a community of students, staff, alumni and music enthusiasts.

We create opportunities for shared and interactive experiences that involve a diverse range of activities both at the school and off campus.

The UQ Friends of Music provides connections with staff, students and alumni of the School of Music. It contributes to enriching the cultural fabric of our community while providing opportunities to engage with local and international artists visiting UQ.

UQ Friends of Music, established in 2015 by graduates with an interest in music, is an association created and driven by volunteers that aspires to develop stronger connections with current UQ students, graduates and the wider community.

UQ Friends of Music welcomes all members of the community with an interest in music to join its collaborative association.

Members enjoy exclusive access to concerts, lectures, masterclasses and research seminars.

The convenor of the UQ Friends of Music is Dr Shaun Brown.
